

From: root@wt6.usdoj.gov@inetgw
To: Microsoft ATR,antitrust@ftc.gov@inetgw,Ralph@essen...
Date: 11/30/01 2:48pm
Subject: Microsoft Hegemony: "Giant Pile Of Shaving Razors"

CC: letters@latimes.com@inetgw,letters@sjmercury.com@i...

Re: Judge to Rule in Dec. on Microsoft

- > if consumers pursued their claim against
- > Microsoft and eventually won the case,
- > they would stand to recover as little as $6 each

That would be a most valuable $6. Accumulated, those pittance could fund the development of a crash-proof operating system. So stop comparing the $6 reward to the $100 monopoly tax that US intellectual property laws allow the worst con artist in history.

"You talk about giant pile of shaving razors, nothing more..."